

PANELIST BIO

PATRICIA BABINGTON

Patricia Babington joined Rockwell Automation (formerly the Allen-Bradley Company) after a 2 year coop assignment with General Electric- Lighting Research. She started her engineering career as an application engineer working with customers to implement programmable control technology and has served Rockwell Automation in a variety of business management, leadership and strategic planning roles throughout her career. She brings diverse business experience and expertise in new product development, product life cycle planning, acquisition and strategic planning and process improvement. She has served as director, PLC Product Management; general manager, Customer Support and Training and is currently the Vice President of Engineering Services, an organization that supports all RA Businesses with technical and product services.

Babington has a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Cleveland State University and is a trained Six Sigma Black Belt.